

Introducing a New Journal for Research in Multicultural Education

Firat Kilavuz^{1*} , Fazilet Karakus²

¹ Nigde Imam Hatip Middle School, TURKIYE

² Department of Educational Sciences, Mersin University, TURKIYE

* Corresponding author: firatkilavuz51@gmail.com

Published: 11 January 2026

As the world becomes increasingly interconnected, cultural diversity is not only a fact of life but also an important goal of educational policy and practice. Schools are becoming increasingly multicultural, with many different factors playing a role, such as language, religion, ethnicity, and socioeconomic status. Hence, multicultural education is very important for both researchers and teachers because it has such a huge impact on shaping a person's character and moral development. Because of this growing and increasing diversity, we need to forge a new path for the publication of research on multicultural education.

We are proud to present the first issue of the Research in Multicultural Education (RME) in response to this changing world. Our main goal for the RME journal is to create an academic platform for multicultural education that includes both theoretical and applied research. The journal will publish high-quality research from a wide range of disciplines, including education, sociology, psychology, linguistics, and anthropology. The journal's scope covers the following topics:

- Multicultural curriculum design and implementation
- Culturally responsive pedagogy
- Intercultural education
- Global citizenship education
- Values clarification and moral reasoning in school settings
- Diversity, equity, and inclusion in education
- Character education and virtue ethics
- Ethical dilemmas in multicultural classrooms
- Religious and cultural pluralism in education
- Indigenous knowledge and education
- Education for peace, tolerance, and human rights

Please cite this article as: Kilavuz, F., & Karakus, F. (2026). Introducing a New Journal for Research in Multicultural Education. Research in Multicultural Education, 1(1), 1-2. <https://doi.org/10.71176/rmejournal.1.1.1>

- Anti-racist education
- Migration, refugee education, and identity Construction
- Language, identity, and multilingual education
- Discrimination, prejudice, and stereotypes in schools
- Family, community, and school partnerships
- Digital media, youth culture, and value formation
- Curriculum and textbook analysis from a multicultural perspective
- Teacher beliefs and practices in multicultural settings
- Civic and democratic values in school life
- Assessment and evaluation in multicultural education
- Technology and multicultural education
- The use of AI in culturally diverse learning environments
- Values education

The journal aims to advance research on these topics. As editors, we strive to ensure our journal is indexed in the most important databases, including EBSCO, ERIC, SCOPUS, Emerging Science Citation Index, and Social Science Citation Index.

To achieve our goal, we invite all researchers worldwide to submit their work to the Research in Multicultural Education and contribute to educational research on multicultural education.